6. Choose your template

The screenshot shows the Overleaf website's gallery for Résumé / CV templates. The page title is "Gallery — Résumé / CV". Below the title, there are three preview cards for different resume styles. The first card is titled "Your Name" and shows a simple layout with sections for "PERSONAL DETAILS" and "EDUCATION". The second card is titled "John Doe" and shows a more professional layout with a profile picture and a "Résumé style" label. The third card is titled "Mahesh Gaikwad" and shows a detailed layout with a profile picture, a quote, and a "ME Mechanical Design Engineering" label. The page also includes navigation links like "Features & Benefits", "Templates", "Help", "Projects", and "Account".

7. Click "Open as Template"

The screenshot shows the Overleaf website's page for the "Recreating Business Insider's CV of Marissa Mayer using AltaCV" template. The page title is "Recreating Business Insider's CV of Marissa Mayer using AltaCV". Below the title, there are three buttons: "Open as Template", "View Source", and "Download PDF". A red arrow points to the "Open as Template" button. The page also includes a metadata section with fields for "Author", "View Count", "License", and "Abstract". The "Abstract" field contains the text: "This is an example CV created using alta cv .cls (v1.1.4, 27 July 2018), based on Marissa Mayer's CV created by BusinessInsider using enhancv. You can edit a 'bare bones' AltaCV template as well. Examples of producing a publication list and referees section is provided on the second page. Note: Now compiles with XeLaTeX and pdfLaTeX too! However if you need to use academicons, you can't use". The page also includes a preview of the resume template, which is titled "MARISSA MAYER" and shows sections for "EXPERIENCE", "LIFE PHILOSOPHY", "MOST PROUD OF", "STRENGTHS", and "LANGUAGES".

8. Fill your personal information by changing the coding given. Then, click “Recompile”.
